LETTING OFF STEAM.

The Times-Herald invites discussion in its columns of matters pertaining to the development of Harney county. In this respect it suggests the irrigation question, the commercial club and good roads among pressing topics about which our readers feel the necessity of letting off steam. Articles must be signed, although names will be withheld from publication at request of the writer, provided the privilege of divulging to interested inquirers is given.

HOUSEWIFE LEARNS VALUE OF HOME CANNED MEATS.

Demonstration by Department of Agriculture Proves Help in Emergency.

The amount of meat canned in home kitchens has increased year by year since the process was first found to be practicable. Slowly but surely women are realizing that it is better to distribute the eating of fresh meat over many months by canning part when it is plentiful than to overeat for a few weeks and then go meatless until the next season.

Heat and labor on hot, busy summer days are saved by winter canning of meat, and a supply of canned fish and meat is very handy in emergencies which arise even in the best-regulated households.

A woman in White County, Indiana, did not think it practical for country women to can meat, but she did "put up" a few cans of chicken because everyone in her club was doing it. The home demonstration agent, supervised by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State college at Purdue, had given a meat-canning demonstration in the county, and when the women learned that meat could be canned, nearly all tried it. Several months after canning the meat the skeptical one was hanging the week's washing on the line, when a machine load of city guests drove in the yard. Glad as the hostess was to see them, her first thought was of the pick-up dinner she had planned giving her family that day. She was noted as a good cook, and it was hard to see her renown in that line suffer even a temporary eclipse. Then came remembrance of the canned meat. In a short time a delicious chicken dinner was on the table and her reputation as a cook was saved.

HORSE-RADISH SAUCE.

A palatable sauce, especially good with boiled beef or steak, is made by adding grated horse-radish and a little vinegar to a little whipped cream, or as follows:

Thicken milk with cracker crumbs by heating them together in a double boiler, using 2 tablespoons of cracker crumbs to 1 and one-half cups of milk. Add one-third of a cup of grated horse-radish, 3 tablespoons of butter, and one-half teaspoon of salt; or thicken with butter and flour some of the water in which the meat was boiled, add a generous quantity—1 or 2 tablespoons—of grated horse-radish, boil a short time, and serve.

PHILOSOPHY OF A COFFEE PERCOLATOR

Hiram bought a percolator,
Took it home to Susie;
Hiram he's some calculator,
Knocked her grouch all bloeey.

Hiram liked his coffee black,
Susie liked her'n meller,
The percolator turned the trick—
Hiram, he's some
Bought it at GEER'S—

That and other little labor saving devices and cooking utensils he's bought there have re-instated his wife's feeling for him quite satisfactorily, Hiram would tell you.

FERTILIZER HELPS GROWTH OF STRAWBERRIES

How a three-year average increase of 51 crates of strawberries per acre in the Hood River district was obtained by the application of 440 pounds nitrate of soda, is told by Gordon G. Brown in the new Oregon station bulletin, "Fertilizer Tests for Strawberries," just off the College press and ready for distribution. Twelve one-acre plots were treated to various combinations of different fertilizers, except the sixth, which was left as a check. The soil was red shot loam, and growers having similar lands or other on which they want some fertilizer information can get a copy of the bulletin by writing to the College, Corvallis, for it.

BACKYARD POULTRY KEEPING PROFITABLE.

Reports show that backyard poultry keeping which was taken up by many on patriotic motives will be extended, because a very large majority of these people became so interested in the work that they are going to keep on, as they find it instructive and profitable from both a physical and a financial point of view. It is, therefore, urged that all who can and so far have not adopted a backyard flock do so.

POLLEN AIDS TOMATO.

"Pollen collected on the finger may be applied to stigmas of (tomato) flowers," and thereby increase the yield and get earlier fruit, reports Prof. A. C. Bouquet, head of vegetable gardening, in a new bulletin which gives the methods and results of six years experiments in the O. A. C. greenhouses. For free copy write to the College at Corvallis.

He Does Heavy Work

"I do heavy work, and that is a strain on a man's kidneys," writes Bert Dawson, Canton, Ill. "My trouble started with sharp pains over my back. I bought a bottle of Foley's and before it was gone, my pain had entirely left me." They banish rheumatic pains, backache, soreness, stiffness. Sold everywhere.
